"Leaves" or "leave"? Matching subjects and verbs

Learner workbook

Choose the correct verb form in present-simple statements by matching it to the subject.

Understand the distinction

In present-simple statements, a singular subject that could be replaced by "he", "she", or "it" usually takes a verb ending in "-s": "The train leaves at six"; "The shop opens early." This matching is called subject-verb agreement. Use the present simple for habits, general facts, and regular schedules. These examples describe a timetable and a usual opening time.

With a plural subject, use the base form: "The trains leave at six"; "The shops open early." The base form is the plain verb, such as "leave" or "open". A plural noun may end in "-s", but its present-simple verb does not take the "he/she/it" ending. "I", "you", "we", and "they" also take the base form: "I leave early"; "You work here." This is true even when "I" or "you" refers to just one person.

Check the spelling: "work" becomes "works"; "watch" becomes "watches"; "study" becomes "studies". "Have" becomes "has" with "he", "she", or "it". "Be" has its own forms: "I am", "you/we/they are", and "he/she/it is". After a modal verb such as "can", use the base form: "She can swim." This lesson focuses on affirmative statements with ordinary verbs. For "do/does" questions and "don't/doesn't" negatives, use the related lessons.

Compare the patterns

ONE TRAIN: "IT LEAVES"

The train leaves at six. The shop opens early.

"Train" and "shop" are singular here. Each can be replaced by "it", so "leaves" and "opens" have the "-s" ending.

TWO TRAINS: "THEY LEAVE"

The trains leave at six. The shops open early.

"Trains" and "shops" are plural here. Each can be replaced by "they". Use "leave" and "open" without the "he/she/it" ending.

CHECK THE SUBJECT AND THE SPELLING

I work. You work. She works. He watches. They study.

"I" and "you" take the base form even when referring to one person. Some "he/she/it" forms need "-es" or a spelling change: "watches", "studies".

Read each example and notice how its form changes the meaning. Use these distinctions to choose your answers on the following pages.

Check your understanding

Circle one answer for each question. There is one correct choice among the options shown. Check the answer key after choosing.

1. Complete this statement about one shop's usual opening time: "The shop ___ at nine."

A. open

B. opens

C. opening

2. Complete this statement about two trains' regular schedule: "Both trains ___ at six."

A. leave

B. leaves

C. leaving

3. Choose the correct present-simple statement with the subject "I".

A. I walks to the station every day.

B. I walking to the station every day.

C. I walk to the station every day.

Choose the best response

Choose the response that fits the situation. Check both its meaning and its grammar.

4. One bus stops outside a station. Two other buses stop outside a school. Choose the sentence that correctly describes both regular routes.

A. One bus stop at the station, and two buses stops at the school.

B. One bus stops at the station, and two buses stop at the school.

C. One bus stops at the station, and two buses stops at the school.

Review your choices

Use the answer explanations on the next page. If you chose a different answer, find the detail that makes it unsuitable and try the question again.

The web lesson gives feedback for the option you select and lets you try again. No written response is required.

Answers and explanation

1. B. opens

One "shop" can be replaced by "it". In this present-simple statement, the verb takes "-s": "opens".

2. A. leave

The subject "both trains" is plural, like "they". Use the base form "leave".

3. C. I walk to the station every day.

The pronoun "I" takes the base form "walk", even though the speaker is one person.

4. B. One bus stops at the station, and two buses stop at the school.

"One bus" matches "it", so use "stops". "Two buses" matches "they", so use the base form "stop".

You are my patient English practice tutor. Use the supplied study level as a starting point, not a proficiency diagnosis. Keep explanations brief and use familiar words. Define any necessary grammar term. Put quotation marks around words, phrases, and example sentences when discussing their wording within an explanation or question. Keep standalone choices and natural story or dialogue text uncluttered; never add quotation marks that falsely attribute a paraphrase to a source.

For every question requiring my response, offer three labeled choices, A, B, and C, then stop and wait. Do not ask for typed sentences, personal details, or an open-ended answer. Give one question at a time. Keep the answer and explanation hidden until I choose. Before showing a scored question, check that exactly one offered answer fits both the grammar and the stated context. If two choices work, revise the question; never mark a natural alternative wrong just because it differs from your model. Vary the correct letter.

Accept a choice letter or the quoted option. If my reply does not identify a choice, repeat the options without scoring it. After each choice, say whether it fits and explain that particular choice. If I miss it, give a short hint and let me retry; distinguish first-attempt answers from retries. Follow the session length below, then review two useful takeaways and one fresh multiple-choice transfer question. Do not convert this practice into a level certificate.

SESSION
Use the supplied grammar focus and qualifications. Explain the central distinction in no more than 70 words. Give two fresh pairs of short examples and explain what changes in meaning. Then run five multiple-choice questions: recognition, form, meaning, a contextual contrast, and application in a new setting. Use plausible alternatives that reveal different misunderstandings; do not introduce an unrelated difficult rule. Preserve exceptions and distinctions between possible, usual, and required wording. Start with the explanation, example pairs, and question 1 only.

Lesson: "Leaves" or "leave"? Matching subjects and verbs

Study level: A1-A2

Goal: Choose the correct verb form in present-simple statements by matching it to the subject.

Grammar focus:
- In present-simple statements, a singular subject that could be replaced by "he", "she", or "it" usually takes a verb ending in "-s": "The train leaves at six"; "The shop opens early." This matching is called subject-verb agreement. Use the present simple for habits, general facts, and regular schedules. These examples describe a timetable and a usual opening time.
